CHARTING A SAFE PATH:

Documentation Strategies for Legal And Clinical Excellence

Strong documentation is your best defense- for both patient care and legal protection. This session will sharpen your understanding of how precise, complete records safeguard patients and providers alike. Learn practical, high-impact techniques to ensure your documentation meets regulatory standards, clearly communicates clinical reasoning, and supports sound consent processes.

Through real-world case examples, you'll see how documentation missteps can lead to legal risk – and how proactive, accurate charting can prevent it.

OBJECTIVES

1. Apply advanced documentation strategies that meet regulatory standards and strengthen legal defensibility.

2. Improve documentation quality by clearly articulating patient condition, clinical reasoning, and consent.

3. Learn from real-world cases where documentation gaps impacted outcomes- and how to avoid them.

Brock Bordelon, MD, FACS

Medical Director, The Hardenbergh Company

He has practiced general and minimally invasive surgery in Colorado Springs since 1994, and has served as the Chief of Surgery, a member of the Medical Executive Committee, and the Citizenship Committee, among several other hospital medical staff functions. He has been named as a "Top Doctor" by his peers in Colorado Springs Style magazine. Dr. Bordelon was a member of the Colorado Medical Board for four years and served as the chair of one of the board's inquiry panels during that time.
